Our packaging explained...

We have been working hard to deliver quality products that also look great on the shelf. With engaging imagery and bright colours, the Bigjigs brand is eye-catching when displayed in store and our modular box sizes with multiple orientation panels allow many options for merchandising. Our packaging provides you, the retailer with a number of useful selling tools and information:

Safety tested flash and wooden craftsmanship logo feature on all packaging and gives consumers quality assurance and piece of mind

Developmental icons on the front face indicate which skills can be enhanced by playing with this product

Every product has been tested as suitable from a specific age which is clearly visible on all selling faces of the packaging

The features text gives a brief overview of the product and the 'Designed in Great Britain' logo indicates the brand heritage and values

Box contents are clearly detailed here to avoid confusion about what's included inside

Multiple selling faces with different orientations allow more merchandising options in store

Annotations on the back highlight specific product features and an image of the child with the product gives an indication of size

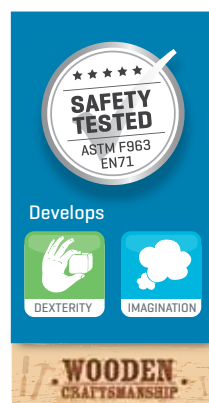

Station Master Sam advises that our wooden railway is compatible with other leading wooden rail brands

Compliance warnings, cleaning instructions, recycling advice and barcodes/batchcodes can be found on the base or back of the packaging.

Look out for the development icons

Learning through play is very valuable and our toys help to provide the stimulation children require to reach developmental milestones.

The icons below feature on our packaging to give guidance as to what skills children can learn and develop whilst playing with each toy.

The ability to use your hands skillfully. Products with this icon will help to develop fine motor skills. Examples: Stackers and sorters, Lacing Animals.

Being certain of your abilities whether it is physical challenges or completing a puzzle. Examples: Puzzles, push along toys.

The ability to use different parts of the body together smoothly and efficiently. Products with this icon help to develop gross motor skills. Examples: Push and pull along toys.

Developing recognition of the alphabet, the sounds each letter makes and learning how letters make up words and relate to objects. Examples: Learn to Write, literacy puzzles.

The ability to form pictures and ideas in your mind. This is particularly relevant for toys which require children to 'imagine' themselves in another role. Examples: Dolls, tea sets, tool sets.

Developing recognition of numbers and what that number represents in terms of quantity. Examples: Numeracy puzzles, learn to Write Numbers.

The ability to produce ideas, or to make something new or imaginative. Examples: Building blocks, train sets.

Discovering a relationship between two or more actions or events. Examples: Hammer Bench, rail items, pull alongs.

The ability to find solutions to problems. Examples: Puzzles, stackers & sorters.

The ability to recognise and name shapes. Examples: Sorters, stackers, puzzles.

The ability to think in an ordered way, make judgements and develop processes. Examples: Puzzles, games, stackers.

The ability to recognise and name colours. Examples: Sorters, stackers, puzzles.

Developing sharing and turn taking as well as understanding of social situations and having empathy for others. Examples: Dinner Service, Birthday Cake, games, Village Shop.

The ability to remember and recall information. Examples: Lotto, Times Table Box, fraction puzzles.

Child development and age grading

0-6 months

As babies grow and develop so do their senses. Vision isn't fully developed at birth so bright and contrasting colours really appeal. From 3 months babies start to be able to coordinate grasping and moving objects, exploring textures and putting things in their mouths. From 4 months, babies may start to sit up unaided which allows them to play with toys in a different way.

6-12 months

At this age, babies will become more mobile. Whether its crawling, rolling, shuffling or walking, this opens up a whole new world to explore. Babies will often be teething at this time and so objects are explored through biting and sucking as well as by touching and feeling them. Fine motor skills will also be developed through play such as being able to pick up small objects between the thumb and index finger.

12 months - 2 years

Now, motor skills are continuing to develop. Stacking and sorting toys provide a good way for children to practice their fine motor skills whilst push and pull alongs can be great for improving coordination. Children are able to grasp basic language and number concepts and begin to develop recognition of shapes and colours.

2-3 years

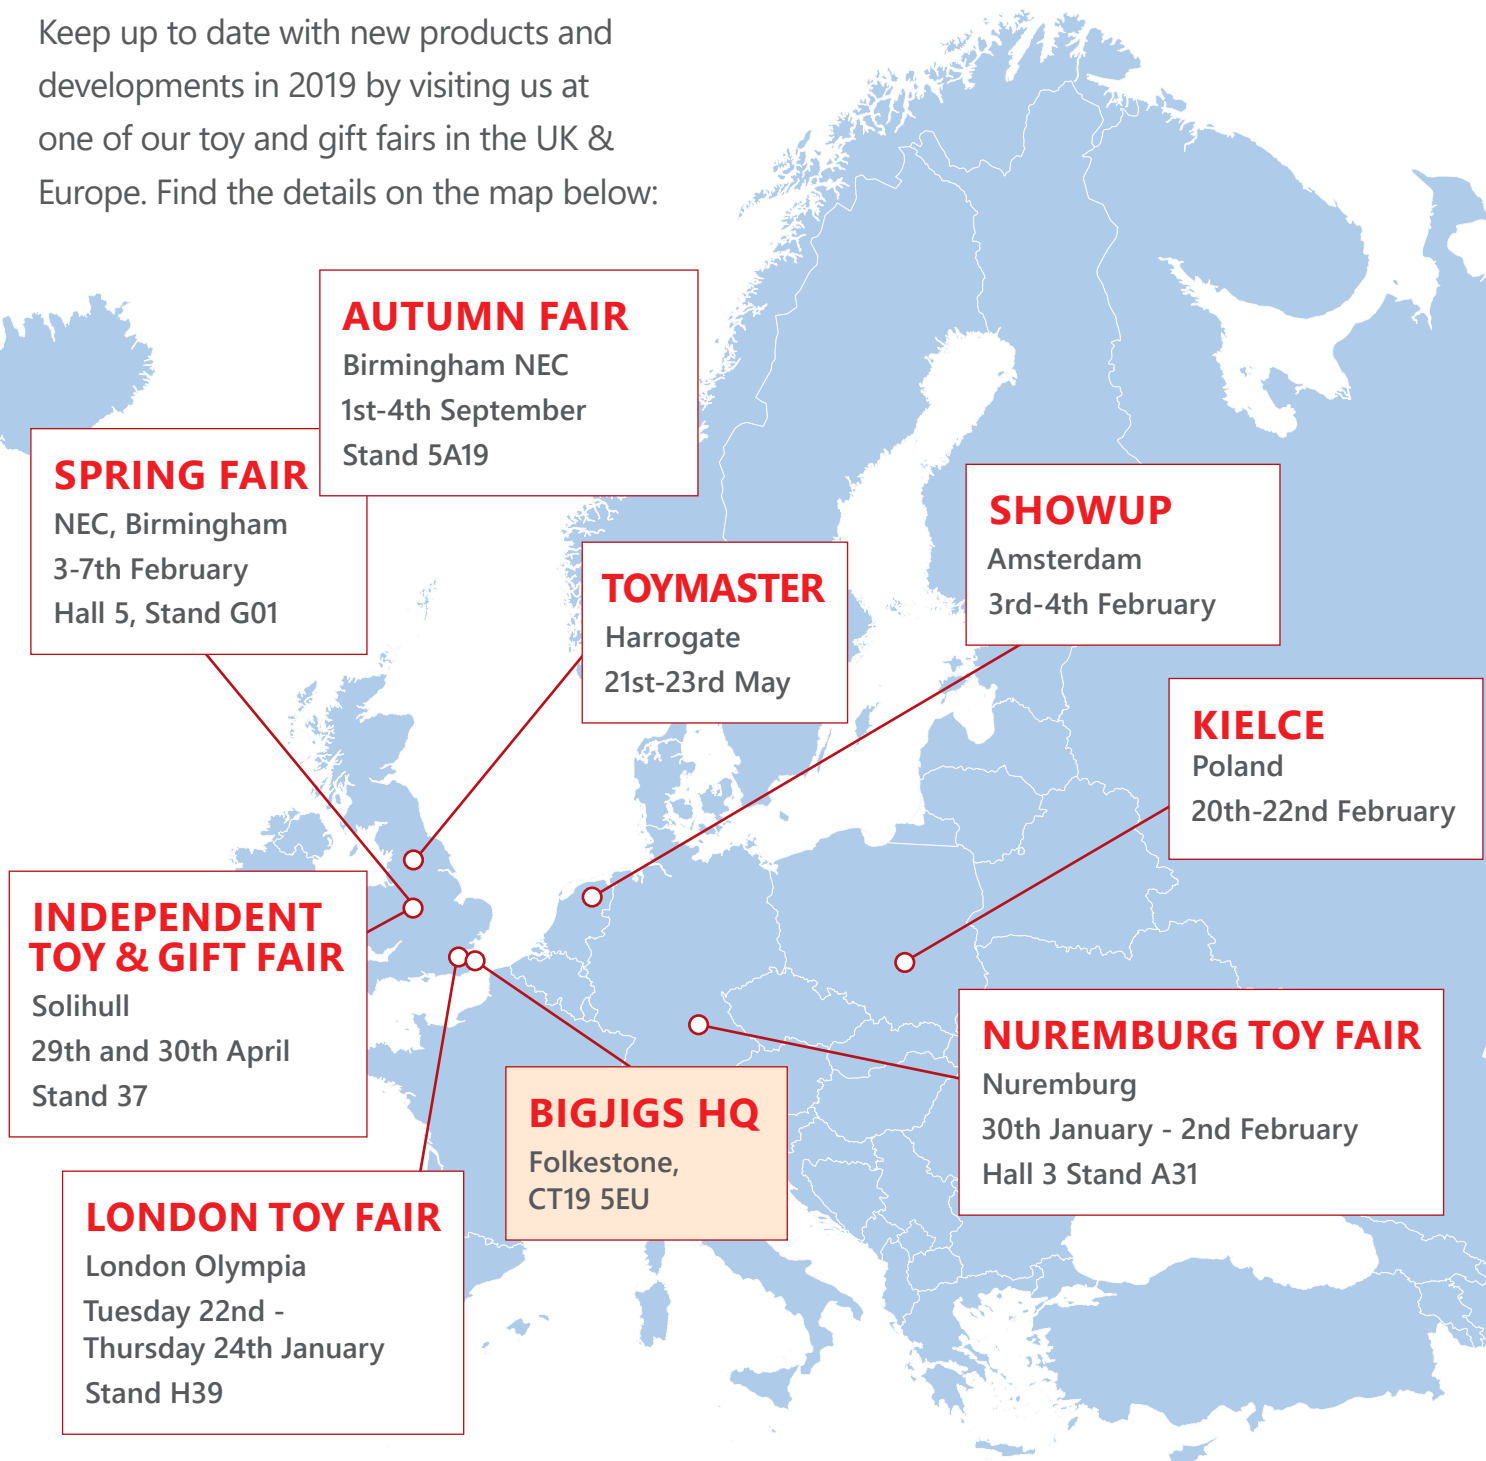

Improving focus and concentration means children may enjoy completing puzzles with larger piece counts (possibly up to 24 pieces). Children often begin to use their imagination to create pretend play scenarios.

3+ years

At this age, coordination often becomes more refined, allowing children to perform more activities successfully and independently. Sharing and turn taking becomes more natural from about 4 years and a developing imagination allows for creative masterpieces and construction challenges!

Learning is fun with Zoobookoo!

Inspired by their children, Steven and Karen Wattleworth started ZooBookKoo with the purpose of designing and manufacturing affordable toys and games to help children learn through play. Their ethos was always to deliver bite-size chunks of learning with lots of fun and intrigue.

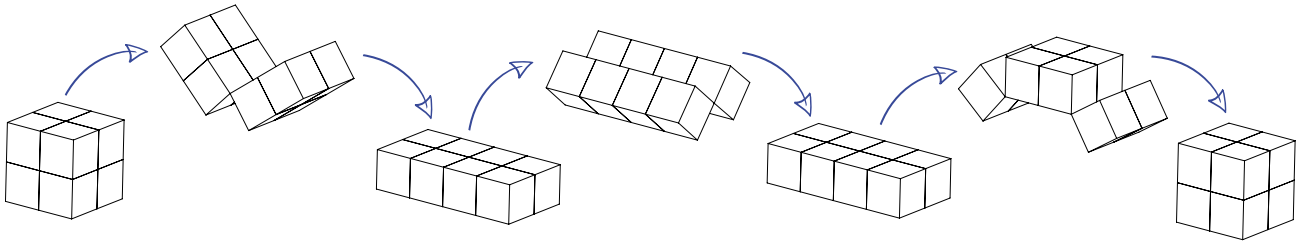

ZooBookKoo launched Cube Book® products about 20 years ago in Suffolk, England and they were an instant hit. Being advised that their youngest son was dyslexic gave Steven and Karen further motivation to develop products that held the attention of their boisterous boys.

From their own experience as parents, they were able to identify gaps in the market and develop a full range of educational games and learning aids. Bigjigs Toys® acquired Zoobookoo in 2017 and remains committed to its ethos. We are looking forward to continuing the success of Zoobookoo.
